A nobleman came to Jesus one day begging him to help his son. The nobleman's son was very ill. "Please come before my child dies," the man begged.

Jesus said, "Go back home. Your son will live."

The nobleman believed Jesus' words.
When he reached home his boy was better.
The fever had disappeared at exactly the time that Jesus had spoken to him.

Four men decided to take their sick friend to Jesus. They carried him on a mat to a house which was so crowded they could not get in.

They climbed up to the roof, made a hole in the ceiling and lowered the man on the mat down in front of Jesus.

"Your sins are forgiven," Jesus said.
"Get up and walk." He was healed immediately.
